November 1 - 30
"Lowland Idyl" 6-8pm
Opening Reception: Art Walk, November 3

Reggio, a superlative draftsman, is equally at home delineating the Louisiana countryside as well as the picturesque topography of New Orleans' Old French Town. With an illustrator's eye, he brings to life the rhythms of a past era through his oil paintings.

Jean Bragg Gallery of Southern Art, 600 Julia St.
For additional information, call 504.895.7375
or visit online at www.jeanbragg.com.

November 3 - 24
"NOLA Warrior" 6-10pm
Opening Reception: Art Walk, November 3rd

604 Julia features NOLA Warrior, a photo collage mixed-media series work by Florida artist Lorraine Lax. Inspired to visit New Orleans, Lax developed a concept for a mixed-media series that acknowledges the city's brave and spirited people. NOLA Warrior is a photographic journey that focuses on New Orleans historical cemeteries. A portion of the proceeds will be donated to "Save our Cemeteries," a New Orleans organization dedicated to protecting and preserving these historical landmarks.

Steve Martin Studio & Gallery, 604 & 624 Julia St.

or visit online at www.stevemartinfineart.com.

November 3 - 24
David Lambert "New Images" 6-8pm
Opening Reception: November 3

Artist David Lambert's new collection of paintings bring the return of the human stories, at times, poignant and humorous, but always shrouded in mystery, for which Lambert is recognized. The sensation that threads through this exhibit is the sense of anticipation. There is not a foregone conclusion to be found. The viewer encounters the paintings at the moment of a fateful act or they step into a composition of someone in mid-dream.

LeMieux Galleries, 332 Julia St.

December 1 - 29
"Shirley Rabe Masinter" 6-8pm
Opening Reception: December 1

Highly collected realist painter, Shirley Rabe Masinter tries in her work to create a vision and a style that tells of the true New Orleans: its beauty, its mystery, its fascination with the celebration of life and death. Masinter strongly conveys painting after painting that she is not interested in depicting stereotypes of people; instead, you will find her always striving to invest the people and places in her city scenes with dignity, power and true realism.

LeMieux Galleries, 332 Julia St.
For additional information, call 504.522.5988
or visit online at www.lemieuxgalleries.com.

December 1 - 29
"Michael Kessler: New Paintings" 6-10pm
Opening Reception: Art Walk, December 1

Kessler's paintings involve the application of many layers of marks. Structures are laid down between translucent skins of paint. These skins are applied with a variety of trowel-like tools. The pressure used during the application of a skin determines the degree to which the underlying structures and gestures appear or disappear.

Gallery Bienvenu, 518 Julia St.

or visit online at www.stellajonesgallery.com.

December 1 - 31
"People, Portals and Palms" 6-8pm ▲
Opening Reception: Art Walk, December 1

Strub is often influenced by the high lifestyle of the Great Gatsby era, which she interperets with particularly modern verve. Using a saturated alystical color palette and stylization of form, her acrylic paintings surpass the period subject matter and become uniquely contemporary.
